

ELENA GOMEZ

Zoe's catalytic converter

Look there's a question going around the shopping centre car park: the one near david jones where cars forget which lanes go one way and which exit ramp takes you onto a main road, or through small roundabouts away from the big lanes (yeah I'm talking about the one at carindale; before the renos) anyway, question going around, this guy with a striped polo shirt who wears shorts most days is saying, why do thieves love a catalytic converter?

We figured he was showing off he knew the names of things. They contain precious metals

I was finishing my ice-cream but I nodded